Frandulent Imitations of Superior Commodities.
Among the many dishonestics of trade which the moral sense of the community is called upon to suppress, we would particularly notice a most permicus and infamous practice adopted by unscrappions desires, of imitating and counterfeiting the exterior appearance and precautionary labels of popular drugs, medican enth, and other articles of personal consumption, and thus, by seizing upon the well acquired reputation of an entrprising trades unincor of mass testiructive and worthless comupon the well acquired reputation of an entrprising tra-der, painting off must destructive and worthless com-pounds, to the sore detrinent not only of the consumer, but to the character of the man who has expended thous-ands of deliars in bringing the genuine article late es-teem and demand. These petty incomy thiswes are the pest of all honorable dealers and traders and the trade is as much highway robbery as the vinient appropriation of their neighbor's purse; in fact, they are beneath the burglar and highwayman in dignit;—or these latter felions exhibit a bravery or recklessness of character in nowise distinguishing the mercantile assassing who stab in the Cark. And ongut they not to be rewarded with a punishment commensurate with the cowardine of their crime? We were led to these remarks by accidentally observing a spurious counterfeit of Udalpho Wolfe's Schledam Schnappe. The labels were instituted perfectly, with the slight addition of a few intires to plead technical avoidance of the law against constructing; the bottles were very similar, and everything propared to impose upon a carcless purchaser. Now is not the man who perpetrated this france affects. Assuredly be let for, as Mr. Wolfe has expended large sums to being his gen-line imported Schnapps into popular demand, that demand may be justify considered a part of his capital in trade, and a fellow stealing a part of the routation is as much a third as if he had stolen a barriel of his Schnapps in bulk. And to this column he sides a further one of defrauding the community he siwing thems a rainoses article for the money they intended to expend for a demandity
